

Recovery LIVING

At Crossing Recovery Services, we understand the challenges individuals face in recovery. That's why we prioritize providing a recovery living campus with diverse housing options, ranging from dormitory-style accommodations to private apartments, designed to support each person's unique needs.

Our Recovery Living Program is more than just safe and sober housing—it embodies a whole health recovery continuum. Rather than expecting individuals to navigate recovery alone, we seamlessly integrate support, resources, and community connections to empower them on a holistic path toward lasting recovery.

CAMERON

“ Through recovery living, I have become stable and learned how to balance the priorities in my life. I don’t think I would be where I am today without Crossing and the recovery living environment. The staff here are amazing! They have not only helped me reach goals that I didn’t know I could reach, but they have also encouraged me to be the best version of myself. ”

AMBER

“Deciding to come to Crossing was the best decision I made for myself. I found out I was pregnant while in treatment, and right away I was supported and surrounded by people willing to help me and love me. I could have lost my baby due to DCFS involvement, but instead I was able to take my baby home, and now I even have custody of my 2-year old son. And, after 16.5 months in recovery, my 11-year old is back in my life and spends every other weekend with me!”

DAVID

“ Every environment I’ve ever lived in, I was exposed to alcohol and other drugs. Housing here is unlike anything I’ve ever had. I can feel safe knowing there is no alcohol and other drugs around. ”
